Margin Account Agreement

A margin account involves the extension of credit to you in connection with your securities account. The Margin Agreement and consent to loan securities enables the securities in your account to be pledged or loaned to others to finance the funds that are loaned to you.

General Information

Initial margin requirements established by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve specify the minimum amount of collateral you must provide when you buy securities on margin. The requirement is expressed as a percentage of the purchase price. It may change from time to time and it may be a different percentage for different types of securities. For example, if the current margin requirement is 50%, and you purchase equity securities on margin costing $15,000 you are required to deposit 50% of that amount or $7,500. The balance due on the purchase will be financed by Legent and your account will reflect the financed amount. As part of the initial margin requirement, you must have a minimum of $2,000 equity every time you enter a new commitment in your margin account. The term "equity" means the excess market value of the securities in your account less any liabilities. Legent and/or your Investment Firm may impose higher requirements from time to time.

Maintenance margin requirements are established by Legent and/or your Investment Firm and by regulatory authorities for the purpose of maintaining a sound financial condition for Legent and your account. If there is a decline in the market value or liquidity of the securities that are collateral for your loan or other circumstances where, in Legent's and/or your Investment Firm's judgment, adequate collateral does not exist, it may be necessary to request additional collateral for your margin account. Ordinarily, a request for additional margin collateral will be made when the equity in an account falls below 30% of the market value of all qualified securities in the account.

Additional margin will ordinarily be required if there is an undue concentration in one or more collateral securities or if the liquidity of certain securities declines, if your credit-worthiness declines, or if the market value of low priced stocks declines below $6 per share. Stocks priced from $3 to $6 require 50% maintenance and stocks priced below $3 per share require 100% maintenance.

A margin call may be satisfied by the prompt deposit of cash or additional acceptable securities with a loan value equal to the request deposit. While most call notices are delivered with a three day response time, Legent retains the right to require additional margin in any amount and in any timeframe it considers prudent. This determination is based on current market conditions, concentration in one or more securities and other relevant factors. If you do not meet a margin call, Legent and/or your Investment Firm may liquidate securities in the account to the extent necessary to meet the call. Legent and/or your Investment Firm can sell your securities or other assets without contacting you. Legent and/or your Investment Firm may attempt to notify you of margin calls but is not required to do so. However, even if Legent and/or your Investment Firm has contacted you and provided a specific date by which you must meet a margin call, Legent and/or your Investment Firm may still take necessary steps to protect their financial interests, including immediately selling securities without notice to you. You are not entitled to choose which securities or other assets in your account(s) are liquidated or sold to meet a margin call. Legent and/or your Investment Firm may increase its “house” maintenance margin requirements at any time and is not required to provide you with advance notice. You are not entitled to an extension of time to meet a margin call.

Interest charged is based on the amount of money loaned to you. Interest is calculated on a 360-day basis and posted to your account as an addition to your debit balance on a monthly basis.

The interest rate will vary from time to time without prior notice, in accordance with shifts in money rates, industry conditions relating to the extension of margin credit and the general credit markets. If the basis on which your interest rate is calculated is increased for any other reason, you will be notified in writing at least 30 days prior to any change.

Short account securities will be “marked to the market” daily. The value of any short securities will be considered as a debit to your account.

Securities in a margin account are registered in Legent’s name and are collateral for any margin loan. You will receive a credit for all dividend or interest payments on these shares. Your account will be charged for any dividend or interest payments on short positions.

Margin Agreement

Your Investment Firm will be pleased to answer any questions you may have regarding your margin account. This Margin Agreement is part of the Client Agreement (“Agreement”) between you and your Investment Firm. In consideration of the acceptance of your account under this Margin Agreement, you agree to the following supplemental terms and provisions:

Extension of Credit. Pursuant to Regulation T under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, and the rules and regulations of the Securities Exchange Commission (“SEC”) and the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, it is agreed that you may purchase, carry and trade certain securities on margin. You authorize Legent and/or your Investment Firm to obtain reports concerning your credit worthiness and business conduct. Upon your request, you may obtain a copy of any said reports.

Maintenance of Margin. You agree to maintain such positions and margin as required by Regulation T and all other applicable statutes, rules and regulations or as may be deemed necessary by Legent or your Investment Firm. Additional requirements may be more stringent than those required by law or exchange regulations. Such requirements may be changed or modified without prior notice to you. You shall promptly satisfy all margin and maintenance calls.

Short Sales. You shall clearly designate any order to sell “short” or “short exempt”, all other sales will be deemed to be “long”.

Interest on Margin. You shall pay interest on credit extended to you under this Margin Agreement for the purpose of purchasing, carrying or trading securities. Interest will be charged on your average daily net settled debit balance and calculated using the interest rate schedule selected by your Investment Firm. This interest schedule will be added to the Legent Base Rate (“LBR”) to determine your interest rate. The LBR will change without notice to you as changes occur in the general credit markets, the broker call rate and general industry conditions relating to the extension of margin credit. On demand, you shall pay any balance owing with respect to your accounts, including fees and any costs of collection. All payments received in your account, including dividends, interest, premiums and principal payments may be applied to the balance due in your account. The rate of interest charged for the credit extended to you shall be calculated on a 360-day year and actual days elapsed.

Securities Lending. For any securities held as property on margin under this Margin Agreement or as collateral for your obligations under this Margin Agreement, you authorize Legent to lend such securities, either separately or with other securities, to itself or other entities. Until written confirmation is received by Legent or your Investment Firm this Margin Agreement constitutes your continuing consent to effect securities lending transactions. Upon such written revocation and payment of all balances due Legent, Legent will deliver such securities to you if so requested.

Hypothecation of Securities. For any amount due on your account, you authorize that your securities may be pledged, re-pledged, hypothecated or re-hypothecated without notice to you, either separately or with securities of other bona fide clients. You represent that you will not allow any securities in any of your accounts to become subject to liens, security interests or other encumbrances. You further represent that you are not controlled by or in control of any issue of any security you have provided as collateral for your account(s).

Disclosure Regarding Liquidation. You acknowledge that: (i) There is no requirement to provide notice to you of a margin deficiency, and (ii) Securities held in your account may be liquidated without notice to satisfy minimum maintenance or margin calls. You also acknowledge that failure to promptly enforce margin requirements does not prevent the subsequent enforcement of such margin requirements with respect to your account.

Liquidation. It is understood and agreed that to satisfy margin maintenance requirements, you may be required to provide additional collateral or liquidate any part of the securities in your account. Without limitation, any of the following circumstances may give rise to the exercise of this power: (i) Your failure to promptly meet any call for additional collateral; (ii) the filing of a petition in bankruptcy by or against you; (iii) the appointment of a receiver if filed by or against you; (iv) a significant judgment is entered against you or any levy is made on your account(s); (v) the occurrence of any event which, in Legent's or your Investment Firm's judgment, operates to impair your ability to perform your obligations under this Margin Agreement. In any such event, and without further notice, you authorize Legent or your Investment Firm to (i) sell any securities held in your account(s); (ii) buy any securities which may be short; (iii) cancel any open orders; (iv) close any outstanding order; and (V) otherwise take any action deemed necessary to comply with applicable statutes, rules and regulations or any other requirements governing your margin account.

Margin Account Disclosure Statement

Legent Clearing (“Legent”) is furnishing this document to you to provide some basic facts about purchasing securities on margin and to alert you to the risks involved with trading securities in a margin account. Before trading stocks in a margin account, you should carefully review the Legent Margin Agreement. Consult your broker or Legent regarding any questions or concerns you may have with your margin accounts. When you purchase securities, you may pay for the securities in full or you may borrow part of the purchase price from Legent. If you choose to borrow funds from Legent, you will open a margin account with Legent. The securities purchased are Legent’s collateral for the loan to you. If the securities in your account decline in value, so does the value of the collateral supporting your loan, and, as a result, Legent can take action, such as issue a margin call and/or sell securities or other assets in any of your accounts held with Legent in order to maintain the required equity in the account. It is important that you fully understand the risks involved in trading securities on margin. These risks include the following:

You can lose more funds than you deposit in the margin account. A decline in the value of securities that are purchased on margin may require you to provide additional funds to Legent to avoid the forced sale of those securities or other securities or assets in your account(s).

Legent can force the sale of securities or other assets in your account(s). If the equity in your account falls below the maintenance margin requirements or Legent’s higher “house” requirements, Legent can sell the securities or other assets in any of your accounts held at Legent to cover the margin deficiency. You also will be responsible for any short fall in the account after such a sale.

Legent can sell your securities or other assets without contacting you. Some investors mistakenly believe that a firm must contact them for a margin call to be valid, and that the firm cannot liquidate securities or other assets in their accounts to meet the call unless the firm has contacted them first. This is not the case. Legent or your broker will attempt to notify its customers of margin calls but is not required to do so. However, even if Legent or your broker has contacted you and provided a specific date by which you must meet a margin call, Legent or your broker can still take necessary steps to protect its financial interests, including immediately selling the securities without notice to you.

You are not entitled to choose which securities or other assets in your account(s) are liquidated or sold by Legent to meet a margin call. Because the securities are collateral for the margin loan, Legent has the right to decide which security to sell in order to protect its interests.

Legent can increase its “house” maintenance margin requirements at any time and is not required to provide you advance written notice. These changes in Legent’s policy often take effect immediately and may result in the issuance of a maintenance margin call. Your failure to satisfy the call may cause Legent to liquidate or sell securities in your account(s).

You are not entitled to an extension of time on a maintenance margin call. While an extension of time to meet margin requirements may be available to you under certain conditions, you do not have a right to the extension.
